John Wall (38) and Marcin Gortat (33) have the second most combined double-doubles among teammates in the NBA (71). Leading the league with 73 combined is New Orlean's DeMarcus Cousins (37) and Anthony Davis (36). Last season Wall and Gortat combined for 90, the most among teammates. Wall has the most of any guard in the East, more than all of the Eastern Conference All-Star guards combined (Lowry - 9, Irving - 8, Walker - 6, Thomas - 5, DeRozan - 3). Gortat is one of five players to average a point-rebound double-double while shooting above a .550 clip.

WHEN BEAL AND WALL START

Washington is 34-19 (.642) this season when Bradley Beal and John Wall are both in the starting lineup. In those games, the Wizards average 108.8 points on .478 percent shooting. Beal averages 22.8 points (.480 FG%, .402 3FG%), 3.6 assists and 2.9 rebounds while Wall averages 22.6 points (.447 FG%), 11.0 assists, 4.6 rebounds and 2.1 steals. The only other Eastern Conference backcourt where both players average at least 20.0 points is Toronto (DeRozan and Lowry).

A BALANCED STARTING FIVE

Washington's starting lineup features five players who average double figure scoring. John Wall (22.7), Bradley Beal (22.6), Markieff Morris (14.8), Otto Porter Jr. (14.3) and Marcin Gortat (11.8) all average double digits. The same five finished last season averaging 10+ per contest. Washington's starters have all scored in double-digits 23 times this season, the most in the NBA. They carry an 16-7 record when doing so. Washington is one of eight teams to have two players averaged 20+ points per contest, one of four teams in the East.

KEEPIN' IT (UNDER) 100

Washington is 15-1 this season when holding its opponent under 100 points. Last season the Wizards had a 27-5 record when keeping opponents under the century mark. In 2014-15 their record was 39-10 when opponents were under the threshold. Since the start of the 2014-15 season, Washington has held 13 opponents under 90 points and carries a 12-1 record in those contests.

A REHASH OF 17 STRAIGHT WINS AT VERIZON CENTER

Washington had its 17 game home winning streak snapped in a 140-135 overtime thriller vs. Cleveland (2/6). The streak was the second longest in team history, spanning nearly two months (12/8/16 - 2/6/17). It was a Verizon Center record as well. The longest streak remains 22, when the Bullets did it 11/27/74 - 3/5/75. During the streak John Wall had 14 double-doubles, Bradley Beal had 13 games with 20+ points and Marcin Gortat averaged a point-rebound double-double. The streak helped the Wizards reach 22 home wins, matching the total from last season. Compared to recent NBA streaks, the 17 games was the sixth longest in the last four seasons.

HEAD COACH SCOTT BROOKS

The Washington Wizards hired Head Coach Scott Brooks on April 26 to become the 24th head coach in franchise history.

On February 1, Brooks was named Eastern Conference Coach of the Month after he guided the Wizards to league best-tying 12-4 record in January, including going undefeated at home, and marking the highest win total in January in franchise history (tied with the 1972-73 Bullets at 12-2). It's his fourth coach of month award, the fourth Washington coach to be an honoree.
